Description: In March we set about understanding how home working would impact employee experience. Five months later and with 125,000+ responses gathered, our Research & Insights team have started their deep mining data exploration, due to be published in full this November. Ahead of that, we have some highlights to share on three key topics;

1. It's all about you – how who you are impacts your experience of working remotely
2. But it's also about work space – how what you had and what you now have also impacts your experience
3. Be ready to fail – how organisations' workplace futures might depend on them failing fast

Join us on Tuesday, 15th September as our Chief Insights and Research Officer Dr. Peggie Rothe and Leesman's Founder & CEO Tim Oldman, take us through the latest findings and offer guidance on what that might mean for your future workplace strategies.
